Message Ex. Nguyen,

It was a pleasure speaking with you this morning.

We are considering amending the independent claims to recite, inter alia:

...for every startup of the computing machine the startup function calls the automatic repair function, the automatic repair function calls the mounting function which is then loaded into the RAM and, if an error is detected during the mounting function, the automatic repair function calls the startup function. Support can at least be found in Fig. 2, and pages 4-5 of the Specification.

I look forward to your comments as to whether this amendment would need to be filed in conjunction with an RCE to gain entry.

Jason Vick
